“ Chris was the bestest friend I ever had. We didn't judge each other or tell each other what to do. We just loved each other unconditonally. We talked laughed and bitched together. Mostly we laughed. I am so glad that we got to go to Cancun, Mexico, share margaritas, lay on the beach and of course laugh. I shall miss being able to talk with her regularly but it seems she is with me more now than in the last 8 years since we moved from Tucson. We met when I was teaching water aerobics in Tucson and she was the loudest, wildest and craziest woman taking the class and I loved it! She had fun and enjoyed herself as it should be. I suggested she learn how to be an instructor and to my surprise she did and was perfect for the job. She was a huge light in my life and I am glad she is choosing to still hang out with me, just on a different level. I love you Chris and look forward for the next time around when we laugh and have adventures together again.
